No Money, No Fair. From the New York World. +

Thirty more minutes of time were given yesterday by the wealthy gentlemen composing the finance committee of the proposed world's fair to the consideration of a plan by which the aspirations of this great city may be realized. Out of this expensive deliberation came nothing. It is definitely understood now that the finance committee will do nothing until a site has been selected for the proposed exposition buildings. Some of the financiers hold that the success of the fair will turn upon the question of locality. After they have been in-formed as to the site they will determine whether to go shead with the work or drop it. Some of our citizens may decide that they will have nothing to do with the enterprise should they not approve of the site. So it is not at all certain that New York will have an exposition in 1892, because no steps have been taken to raise the money. Time is passing, and it is extremely unfortunate that indecision and proscrastination have thus far usurped the functions of zeal and energy.

FATAL COLLISION OF TRAINS. Serious Accident on the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad.

TWO TRAINS ON THE SAME TRACK-AN ENGINEE KILLED AND SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED-SOME ONE BLUNDERED-STORIES OF PASSENGERS-AN INQUEST TO BE HELD.

A railroad accident occurred within the city limits last evening in which one man was killed and several injured. Special freight train No. 307 on the Pennsylvania road left this city for Baltimore and a few minutes before 9 o'clock collided with the Philadelphia accommodation train No. 33 due at the 6thstreet depot at 8:45. The collision occurred between the eastern end of the navy yard tunnel and the trestle work over the Eastern branch, at the foot of Pennsylvania avenue. The two trains happened to be on the same track, owing to the fact that one of the tracks was blocked up by some derailed freight cars. Orders had been issued to the passenger train to pass from its usual track (encumbered by the freight cars) to the other one before entering the city. This order was given in order to avoid delay. Owing to some one's blunder the two trains got on the same track at the same time, and the first warning of danger that either engineer had was the spectacle of the head light of an approaching engine on the same track. Both engineers whistled for down brakes, but it was impossible to check the speed of the heavy trains. They crashed into each other with frightful force. The engineer of the passenger train, James Jamison of Philadelphia, was killed and his body was badly mutilated. The passengers, to the number of seventy-five or one hundred made a fortunate escape, none being killed. They were, however, badly shaken up and some were bruised. The cars were badly wrecked. Six of the freight cars were thrown from the track and the engines were completely wrecked.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED. The engineer who was killed was fifty-five years old and leaves a widow and four children in Philadelphia, where his body will be sent. The wounded are: Lewis W. Slimmer, brakeman, both arms broken and other injuries, is at Providence hospital; A. L. Dean, fireman, head cut and wrist sprained; Joseph M. Har-man, engineer, arm slightly cut and bruised; L. S. Fenks, Alexandria, sprained ankle, but recovering; John J. Coulter, a member of the Union Veteran corps, right ankle sprained; be sent to Europe are now being mailed and next week Mr. Lepley will begin on the list of names of parsons residing in this about the abdomen; - Fenn, white, severely bruised.

Medical assistance was soon brought to the scene of the wreck and the police ambulances and Scotland will be invited. The heads conveyed the injured to their homes and to of European universities of Roman hospitals. Workmen were soon engaged in clearing the track of the wreckage. It was early this morning before the road was in running order, and travelers in the depot as well as on the incoming trains were obliged to make the best of the situation.

JAMISON'S DEAD BODY AT THE MORGUE. Jamison, engineer of the passenger train. Death must have been almost instantaneous, for there is no appearance of suffering in the rigid there is no appearance of suffering in the rigid features of the dead man. The right foot is severed entirely just above the ankle, but it lies in its proper place, only the ends of the crushed bones and the torn flesh and sinew indicating the deathly amputation. But little holds the left leg together, for the same force which cut the right foot off came very near doing the same thing for its neighbor a little below the knee. The exposed portions a little below the knee. The exposed portions of the limbs are covered with dirt and blood, and the clothing is considerably torn in several places. The dead man's face is covered with coal dust, and as he lies on the zinc-covered board with a red handkerchief supporting his lower jaw and holding his black hair awkwardly out of place he looks strangely like an Indian. From a wound alongside the right ear blood has dropped on to the floor. His grimy hands, which rest on his stomach, are not even

AN INQUEST TO BE HELD. Coroner Patterson went down to the morgue this morning, viewed the body and notified the police that an inquest would be held at 2 o'clock. Officer Oliver at once started out in

The Pennsylvania railroad authorities have not as yet made any arrangements for an investigation of the accident and the causes which led to it. Supt. McKeever told a STAR taken tomorrow.

reporter that some action would probably be STORY OF A PASSENGER. John J. Coulter, a member of the Union Veteran corps, who lives on H street between 2d and 3d streets northwest, was on the incoming train. His right ankle was sprained. He said to a STAR reporter that when the train reached short distance east of the tunnel it was signaled to stop. He heard one of the railroad men say that the track was blocked and the train would have to go in on the left hand track. The train backed and then it started on the left track. He thought that an accident might happen after changing tracks and he so remarked to a fellow passenger. He had hardly made the remark when he felt the jar of the train caused by reversing the engine.

Thinking there was trouble of some kind he stood up and presently the trains met. He was in the first car. After the engines met, he said, the engine drawing the outgoing train seemed to keep on, as though making its way through the wreck. The car he was in was then off the track, and had it not been for the coupling that held it to the second car the first one would have gone into the water. Finally the passengers got out of the first car. Everything was in confusion. People were running backward and forward and no one seemed to know what to do. He remembered that there was an express train due in a few minutes and in order to avoid further trouble he ran up the track with a signal lamp. One of the railroad men overtook him and went some distance out on the track and stopped the incoming express. STATEMENT OF MR. LANDVOIGT Mr. Edward Landvoigt, who is a builder, his shop being at 641 Massachusetts avenue, and who resides at 804 10th street southeast, said to a STAR reporter: "I was coming in from Glendale on the Philadelphia combination and was seated in the front car, where there were also many women and children.

"At Bennings the train was delayed and I walked out on the platform and asked a police-man what caused the stoppage. He said there was a freight wreck further down and that our train was to be switched over to the left-hand track and go into the city in that manner, "When the train started I remained standing on the front platform, and there being no bag-gage car was thus enabled to see the engine completely and far down the track. Be-fore reaching the bridge the train was gage car was thus enabled to see the engine completely and far down the track. Before reaching the bridge the train was going, at a high rate of speed, and as we reached it I saw a head light at a considerable distance ahead. At this time the engineer was turned sidewise adjusting some machinery, while the fireman was raking coal from the tender. I called to them, 'For God's sake look ahead!' but the rattle of the cars was so great persons. The single fact that over 90 persons. ahead." but the rattle of the cars was so great that neither paid any attention. Again and again I shouted, but not until the two trains were within 100 yards of each other did the engineer look up. He reversed his engine, and almost immediately the crash came and he fell back. I do not like to say anything about the dead, but it is my opinion that the engineer and fireman should have kept a better lookout. We were running in on the same track used by the outcoming trains and if the engineer had seen the ahead!' but the rattle of the cars was so great coming in on the same track used by the out-coming trains, and if the engineer had seen the other head light as soon as I did the accident could probably have been averted."

The bones in Mr. Landvoigt's left hand are crushed and he is terribly bruised on his left side. It is also feared that there are internal injuries.

AN INJUNCTION GRANTED.

A Decision Against the District Commis sioners in the Electric Light Case. Chief Justice Bingham is convinced that not only had Cammack et al. the right to apply for an injunction to stop the Electric heat and power company from tearing up the streets of the city, but that they did the proper thing in filing such a bill. He therefore granted a temporary injunction. The decision in this interesting case was not looked for yesterday evening, but ex-Commissioner Webb's concluding argument was brief and it gave the court an opportunity to settle the matter without using up any of today's valuable time. It was nearly 5 o'clock when argument was closed, and the chief justice indicated his intention of settling the matter without his intention of settling the matter without further delay. He said the questions involved were not easily decided, but as the matter would doubtless have to go before a higher court he would not delay decision by taking the case under especial advisement. He was confident that taxpayers had a right to attempt to enjoin the Commissioners when those officials proposed to improperly expend public money, and he would therefore grant the temporary injunction asked for by Cammack and others, they, of course, to give the usual bond others, they, of course, to give the usual bond condition for payment of all damage that might accrue to the Electric heat and power company by reason of the delay. As to the gas company, it could sue for any damage sustained, but in this matter its status was uncertain. Their bill was therefore dismissed. EFFECT OF THE TEMPORARY INJUNCTION. The temporary injunction will prevent the heat and power company from doing anything until after the case comes up for hearing before the Court in General Term. It is possible that the case may be considered early in the October term, but if there is any considerable amount of friction between counsel the final decision of the Supreme Court of the District may be delayed two or three months. According to the terms of the contract made between the District Commissioners and the heat and power company the latter is to have 500 lamps in operation on December 1, and in default there is to be a penalty. In case the injunction is denied by the Court in General Term the heat and power company will have action for dam-ages against Cammack et al.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF SOLDIERS Proposed New Pension Bills and Why They are Framed.

The coming session of Congress will probably be full of discussion on proposed pension legislation. Mr. H. Berdan of this city has already sent to Senator Davis, chairman of the Senate committe on pensions, a letter transmitting copies of four bills intended to readjust the pension lists on what he considers a fairer and more equitable basis than at present. He argues that as the records show that a large per cent of the soldiers and officers were first treated in hospitals after they had been two years or more in service, it is fair to presume that many of those who enlisted late in the war

The law, he says, does not allow a pension to be granted for disability resulting from dis-eases contracted in service unless the applicant can show that he was treated for such diseases while in service, and bill No. 1 is designed to give relief to this class of officers and men. increase the annual appropriations for pen-sions he submits bill No. 2, which is intended

Bill No. 4 is to put a stop to young girls mar-rying old soldiers for the sake of getting their pensions. The single fact that over 90 per cent of the money paid in pensions for the war of 1812 is paid to women should be, he thinks, sufficient to cause this bill to become a law.

He drew up separate bills so that the most de-serving class of officers and men should no longer be deprived of their rights from the nation until the less deserving class got what they claim. Dragged into LakeOntario by a Balloon Prof. Slocum, the aeronaut who suffered a fall from a balloon at Antwerp a short time ago, Thursday made an ascension at Cape Vincent fair, near Watertown, N. Y. The wind was blowing briskly toward Lake Onterio, and as he expected, the professor struck the water three miles out, where a sailboat had been sent to pick him up. The wind took the balloon along at such a rapid rate that it was some time before the boat could catch it. Slocum had on a life preserver and managed to keep his head out of the water part of the time. It was a narrow escape.
